

Art A level

The most important thing is that you start to draw, sketch and record things. This will really help you when you start the course as it will keep your ideas flowing and ensure that your drawing skills don't go rusty!

Keeping a visual diary or journal is a brilliant way to start. Find something you like, try sketching then add to this with new ideas. I have added some pictures, see what you can find that inspires you. Remember that you can add photos and notes to show and explain what you have seen. Try to draw every couple of days, but you should have a good range of work to show us in September.

Please contact me if you need any ideas, I can help you to find a direction that suits.

Have a lovely summer,

Mrs Cumberland
